Privacy Policy (March 05, 2019)

Introductory

Dear Visitor! When you use our services to transfer your personal information to the operator (hereinafter: Data Controller), we will treat your personal data as a data controller. Personal data is any data that you can clearly identify. These data are handled in two ways by us. On the one hand, the browser you use, the web address, the technical data (cookies = cookies) you visit, are automatically generated, and on the other hand you will need to provide your identification and contact details to order, even if you want to make a personal contact with us. The primary purpose of our data management is to fulfill our customers' orders and related obligations and provide information about our business. It is important for us to protect our personal data and comply with GDPR (EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND COUNCIL (EU) 2016/679). We operate our website and organize our operation in such a way that we treat our personal data only to the extent and to the extent strictly necessary for the provision of our service, as well as to the maximum security of data management that we expect to be able to provide. We reserve the right to amend our privacy policy, but we undertake to notify our visitors of any changes in time. Our site may contain a link that leads to other providers' sites. The Data Controller does not assume any moral or financial responsibility for the data and information protection practices of these providers or for certain issues arising therefrom.

The legal basis for data management

Personal data requested by the Data Controller on the online interface, or personally or by telephone, if they are based on a law (for data necessary for billing) or a contractual obligation (data necessary for the conclusion of a contract or performance of a contractual obligation, and data required for delivery), it is obligatory to give the customer the purchase of our products, in the absence of which we cannot establish or maintain a contractual relationship with it.

In case of subscribing to the newsletter, our data management is based on a voluntary contribution, which can be withdrawn at any time by the data subject by clicking on the option to unsubscribe from the newsletter. In this case, we will immediately delete the data used for this purpose.

Visitors also have the opportunity to send email. Messages not related to our orders or contracts will be deleted after 30 days. But upon request, the cancellation request is received immediately upon receipt. Phone numbers were only saved in connection with orders (the legal basis of which is the performance of the contract), otherwise we are not listed, saved and guarded.

Data that can be used for contacting users (such as email addresses) will be used solely for the purpose approved by the user, and will not be transferred, sold or sold to third parties under any circumstances without the prior written permission of the user. and we only forward it to data processors that are secure from a data protection point of view. Personal data is typically obtained as a data controller from the data subject.

If the customer does not provide himself / herself as a delivery address or contact person, or other information, he / she assumes responsibility for the accuracy of the data provided and the lawfulness of the data disclosure (ie that the specified person is aware of the delivery as a contact person and accepts it).

If any person discovers that any person has provided us with personal information on its behalf, immediately notify the Data Controller of this circumstance and immediately delete your data.

Data Manager can automatically collect information about the number of visits to our pages, the number and frequency of visits. This information is only processed in aggregate, non-identifiable form, and is used for statistical purposes. The analysis of collective data helps to assess the visitor's interest and the development of services on demand.

Visitors can log in with their Facebook or Google account as well, and can start an online chat with their messenger account. The data we receive is the facebook or google identifier, that are stored until the customer registration is in place, and will be automatically deleted after it has expired.

We store the data in the following ways:

- keep the invoices issued or paid by us electronically;
- preserve the orders placed and contracts and related correspondence and other documents and clothing data on both electronic and paper basis;

- build a database of customer contact information so that we can access information about our service; The data collected online is stored exclusively on our hosting server in Hungary. The personal data stored on paper are stored in a closed manner, destroyed after the expiry of their guarding time, so that no personal data can be reconstructed. Digitally stored data is also permanently deleted.
